

GDC is Hiring!

Job Description:

Gamble Design Collaborative is a small Landscape Architectural and Development Planning firm located in the beautiful small town of Franklin, Tennessee (just south of the bustling city of Nashville), and we are looking to grow! We collaborate daily with a network of civil engineers, architects, ecologists, biologists, and illustrators to provide expert development planning focused on our Client's goals. Our specialty is crafting the plan and designing places at a variety of scales. We combine technical experience with proven design skills to provide clients with development plans that are environmentally responsible, fiscally sustainable, and strategically aligned with our client's marketing plan.

GDC is currently looking for an entry level candidate to join our team! We want someone that is driven and creative – someone willing to roll up their sleeves and jump right in whenever needed. Candidates should possess excellent technical skills – including CAD, Photoshop, elementary Excel as well as having a working knowledge of grading, layout, & construction detailing.

If you're looking for a fun work environment, look no further! GDC is a hard-working group, but we have the best time every step of the way! We've got the grown-up stuff covered too with a great benefits package and flexible vacation package. Salary and Benefits are commensurate with experience. If you think you may be a good fit and are ready to get to work, please send qualifications and work samples to lindsay@gdc-tn.com.
