A protest is always evolving. A protest also changes moment to moment, so its agents have to be prepared for anything.

In the real city of Knoxville, Tennessee, a supply of ASCOPE units will be placed in an obvious and controversial location in the city as a home base. It will become an expense for many people. The system will be able to be taken away and used as needed by citizens wishing to launch a protest. The ASCOPE units feature a locking mechanism allowing them to be configured into many forms. As structures are used in protests and their movements are left behind as a marker of the conflict, citizens at large will start to appreciate that controversial language is healthy. These forms speak true construction and allow other voices to be heard.
